COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

HISTORY

In the summer of 1995, a reunion was organized and held in Chaco Canyon for those who participated in the ASNM rock-art field schools. After re-visiting sites at the reunion, Jane Kolber realized that the school's methods had not been sufficient to adequately record all the data and proposed that the NPS records be appended. The restudy was approved and recording sessions began in 1996.

The Chaco Navajo Rock Art Project (CNRAP) was funded by a grant from the Western National Parks Association and also involved Jane Kolber. Because Navajo art is rarely located in close proximity to the ruins, much of it was overlooked by the ASNM Rock-Art Field School. Navajo rock-art also had not been studied since it was relatively recent and most studies had been focused on the prehistoric.

In April-May 2006, Jane Kolber, Donna Yoder & Thomas Windes led the Chaco Area Inventory of Resources on Navajo lands (CAIRN) outside the boundaries of the CC NHP to document evidence of prior occupation that had been previously neglected. This survey was conducted under the auspices of the Navajo Nation Chaco Protection Sites Program. In this project both the traditional archeology and the rock art was recorded simultaneously, a rare example of a site being studied at the same time instead of fractionally over a long period of time. Kolber and Yoder recorded all the rock-art while Windes and his team determined the limits of each site, assigned site field numbers, and mapped and recorded each site.

History: In the summer of 1995, a reunion was organized and held in Chaco Canyon for those who participated in the ASNM rock-art field schools. The ASNM Rock Art Field School conducted a recording project from 1975-1981 under the direction of James G. Bain, at the request of W.J. Judge. After re-visiting sites at the reunion, Jane Kolber realized that the school's methods had not been sufficient to adequately record all the data and proposed that the NPS records be appended. NPS officials were also increasingly interested in having the rock art sites reassessed in order to better monitor and preserve them.

The restudy (Chaco Rock Art Reassessment Project - CRARP) was approved and recording sessions began in 1996. Jane Kolber and Donna Yoder rephotographed sites and produced detailed scale drawings; new forms were created and further work included comparing the condition of the rock-art during the 1970's with the present. Additionally, many new rock art sites were discovered which had not been catalogued by studies conducted during the seventies.

Kolber and Yoder continue to conduct extensive fieldwork today.

Scope: Binders are made up of PRINTS, SLIDES, NEGATIVES, SITE FORMS, MAPS, DAILY LOGS, CD-Rs

There are item level records for the slides, NEGS 0097483 -

Some prints were also given negative numbers but were not catalogued at the item level (nor do they need to be.)
