

BLACKSTONE CANAL TRANSPORTATION UNION LINE.

THE subscribers, successors to the "Providence and Worcester Canal Boat Company,"—whose business has heretofore been conducted by Wilber Kelly and Horace Buffum, will commence running, as soon as the Canal is navigable, a Line of Boats, for the transportation of Goods, between Providence and Worcester, and the intermediate places.

A Boat will leave Providence every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, for Worcester, and often if freight should offer. The subscribers have large and commodious store-houses at the Basin in Providence, and the upper Basin in Worcester, where Goods that have been, or are to be transported can be stored any reasonable length of time, free of expense; and our arrangements in other respects, are such, that we can say, with perfect confidence, that those who may favor us with their business, may rest assured of its being done in a satisfactory manner.

All Goods consigned to S. R. Jackson, Providence, or Hammond Howe, Worcester, will be forwarded with despatch, and any Goods transported down the Canal for shipping, will be forwarded free of charge.
