COPYRIGHT AND RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. The various state privacy acts govern the use of materials that document private individuals, groups, and corporations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a reproduction if the document does not infringe the privacy rights of an individual, group, or corporation. These specified conditions of authorized use include:

- non-commercial and non-profit study, scholarship, or research, or teaching
- criticism, commentary, or news reporting
- as a NPS preservation or security copy
- as a research copy for deposit in another institution

If a user later uses a copy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," the user may be personally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement. This institution's permission to obtain a photographic, xerographic, digital, or other copy of a document doesn't indicate permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, sell, distribute, or prepare derivative works from this document without first obtaining permission from the copyright holder and from any private individual, group, or corporation shown or otherwise recorded.

Permission to publish, exhibit, perform, reproduce, prepare derivative works from, sell, or otherwise distribute the item must be obtained by the user separately in writing from the holder of the original copyright (or if the creator is dead from his/her heirs) as well as from any individual(s), groups, or corporations whose name, image, recorded words, or private information (e.g., employment information) may be reproduced in the source material. The holder of the original copyright isn't necessarily the National Park Service. The National Park Service is not legally liable for copyright, privacy, or publicity infringement when materials are wrongfully used after being provided to researchers for "fair use."

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if fulfillment of the order is judged in violation of copyright or federal or state privacy or publicity law.

HISTORY

1916 – National Park Service created

1920 – Milton P. Skinner becomes Yellowstone's, and the National Park Service's, first appointed naturalist. He establishes the park's first museum in Fort Yellowstone's bachelor officers' quarters (today's Albright Visitor Center).

1920 – Isabel Bassett Wasson becomes Yellowstone's first female (seasonal) naturalist

1924 – Yellowstone School of Natural History established

1928 – Planning begins on a series of trailside museums

1931 – Herma Albertson Baggley becomes Yellowstone's first full-time female ranger naturalist

1943 – Clyde Max Bauer becomes the park's first Chief Park Naturalist

1946 – David deLancey Condon becomes Chief Park Naturalist and serves until 1959

1947 – Ranger Naturalist Mildred Erickson starts Yellowstone's first interpretive programs for children, the Junior Nature Explorers program

1966 – Mission 66, 50th anniversary of the National Park Service

1972 – 100th anniversary of the creation of Yellowstone National Park

1977 – Young Adult Conservation Corps (YACC) established

1985 – Yellowstone's first Junior Ranger program started

SCOPE AND CONTENT

Interpretation and Education Records
1920-Present (bulk dates: 1970s-1990s)

CATALOG NUMBER YELL 203196

VOLUME 125 LF

DESCRIPTION This collection contains materials related to the operations of the Division of Resource Education and Youth Programs, formerly known as the Division of Interpretation.

Records relating to interpretation and education can include, but are not limited to: studies; plans; reports; correspondence; youth programs and classroom curricula; brochures and other publications; and exhibits and wayside documentation. These records document the park's interpretation and education programs which aim to foster the development of a citizen stewardship ethic, promote safety, and instill an understanding, appreciation, and enjoyment of the significance of the park and its resources.

Researchers may find these records valuable when studying the development of interpretation as a professional discipline and the development of interpretive programming for children.

ORGANIZATION Organized into seven series:

Series I, Planning and Reports
Series II, Communications
Series III, Interpretive Planning and Training
Series IV, Youth Programs
Series V, Museums, Exhibits, and Waysides
Series VI, Publications and Brochures
Series VII, Photographs and Films

PROVENANCE Transferred to the archives by various park offices and staff, often as part of a larger group of records.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

I. Planning and Reports

This series contains administrative planning documents and reports for the Division of Interpretation, often from the office of the superintendent or the chief park naturalists. Records include establishment of the Yellowstone School of Natural History (1924), Interpretive Master Plans (1930s-1950s), Mission 66 planning, and monthly, quarterly, and annual reports.

II. Communications

This series contains logbooks kept by visitor center and warming hut employees and correspondence of the Division of Interpretation. Logbooks document daily operations and are organized alphabetically by location and then by date. The Mount Washburn logbooks were kept as an example of a relatively complete set of visitor guest books and include a hiker survey (1997-2001). The correspondence contains details about administrative activities.

III. Interpretive Programming and Training

This series contains records pertaining to interpretive programming (e.g. campfire talks, guided hikes, living history, etc.) and training of interpretive staff. Highlights include ranger naturalist manuals (1926-1945), and Arts Yellowstone and Artist in Resident programs (1990s).

IV. Youth Programs

This series contains materials relating to youth programming. These programs are designed for age groups ranging from 4-24 and include curriculum-based programs, art and essay competitions, and conservation work-study initiatives. Noteworthy programs include the Yellowstone Children's Fire Trail, Imagine Yellowstone (both developed in response to the 1988 fires), the Young Adult Conservation Corps (YACC) and the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) programs, Expedition Yellowstone, and the Junior Ranger program.

V. Museums, Exhibits, and Waysides

This series includes photographs, negatives, proofs, correspondence, reports, architectural drawings, design drawings, logbooks, and plans relating to acquisitions and loans, building and exhibit planning and design, visitor centers, wayside planning and design, and wayside artwork. Major topics include the Canyon Visitor Education Center building and exhibits, the Museum of the National Park Ranger, and artist Edmund Sawyer's wildlife drawings/paintings.

Additional information can be found in the History Program Records including documents pertaining to museums acquisitions, inventory reports, loans, as well as correspondence related to exhibit materials and planning. Information about the construction and maintenance of buildings can also be found in the Facilities and Maintenance Collection.

VI. Publications and Brochures

This series contains publications and brochures such as Yellowstone Nature Notes, Trailside Notes, Yellowstone Today, Discover Yellowstone, trail maps, and similar items. It also contains administrative files and correspondences about various publications and brochures.

VII. Photographs and Film

This series contains photographs, photographic slides, glass lantern slides, negatives, 16mm film, and photo index cards on park subjects such as wildlife, people, buildings, and special events. It also includes correspondence about the photographs, film production, acquisitions, and loans. Special events include photos of visits from First Lady Pat Nixon and President Bill Clinton. The glass lantern slides were used by park staff for interpretive lectures and presentations, the precursor to the modern park slide file.

Additional photographs of visiting dignitaries and celebrations (i.e. anniversaries, dedications, etc.) can be found in the Management and Accountability Records, Series IV, Special Events.
